1. The Academy Institute for Research on the Physics of Solids, Berlin-Buch, Lindenberger Weg 76, is scheduled to move from its present location to a large new institute which is to be constructed in 1954 at the Platz der Akademie (formerly Gendarmenmarkt), Berlin. Funds amounting to between three and five million DM have been allotted for the construction of the new institute, which will continue to be headed by Professor Friederich Moeglich 1/.

2. Because the Institute is at present overcrowded, its Electronics Department headed by Dr. Tackert (fmr), will be set up in the present laboratory of the Department for Crystal Structure Analysis in the nearby Academy Institute for Medicine and Biology until the new institute is completed. Tackert and his staff will move there as soon as the Department moves into the third floor of the Berliner Gluckaufwerk where it is to reopen as a new independent academy institute.

3. After Moeglich's Institute moved into the new building at the Platz der Akademie, the present building of the Institute for Research on the Physics of Solids will be taken over by the Institute for Medicine and Biology headed by Professor Walter Friedrich.

Comment. The investment funds allotted for the construction of Moeglich's new institute represent a considerable part of the 1954 total investment funds for academy institutes, which amount to a total of 14 million DM.
